

Policies of the Daniel Noboa government boosted the growth of foreign direct investment, which reached USD 1.299 billion in 2025.

Ecuador is consolidating its economic recovery and improving its global standing. In 2025, Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) reached USD 1.299 billion, representing a 191% increase compared to 2024 and a 170% increase compared to 2023. This result reflects a clear shift: today, the country attracts more capital, more opportunities, and more development.

This progress is no coincidence. It is a result of the actions taken by President Daniel Noboa's administration, focused on restoring macroeconomic stability, streamlining public finances, and building confidence in international markets. These conditions are key to attracting investors from around the world to once again invest in Ecuador.

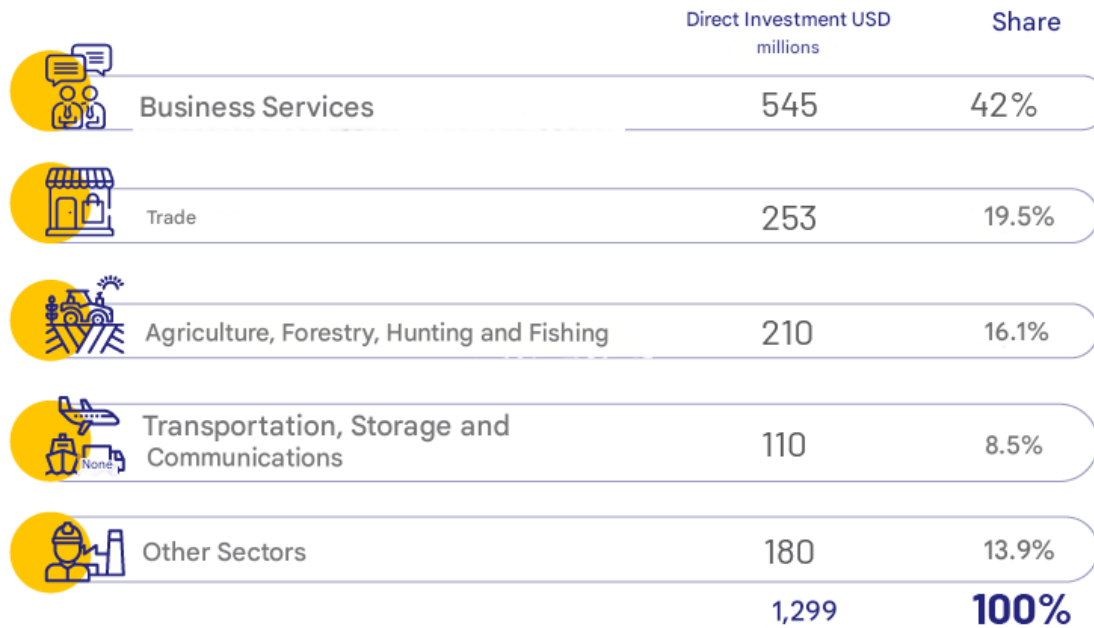

Foreign Direct Investment (USD millions)

Increased investment has a direct impact on citizens' lives. More investment means more jobs, greater economic dynamism, more competitive businesses, and new growth opportunities. Furthermore, it boosts exports and strengthens dollarization by generating more foreign exchange earnings.

These resources have been concentrated primarily in strategic sectors such as business services, commerce, and agriculture, demonstrating productive diversification and a strengthening of the real economy.

Foreign Direct Investment by Economic Sector - 2025

Internationally, countries like Costa Rica, New Zealand, and Panama lead the origin of this capital, confirming the renewed global interest in the country.

Foreign Direct Investment by Country of Origin - 2025

This climate of confidence was also reflected in Ecuador's return to international capital markets after a seven-year absence, where investor demand far exceeded supply, reaching 4.5 times the issued value. This outcome also allowed the country to reduce its financing costs.